March-April 1968/Ohio University, Athens

Seems to Me...

by Max A. Schaible

FOR THOSE OF YOU who have been reading the Alumnus regularly, there may be no reason for me to introduce myself. But for those of you who have just begun reading the magazine, let me say that this is the fourth issue to bear my name as editor. I am a 1957 University of Colorado journalism graduate and former editor of The Colorado Alumnus and The Berry Alumni Quarterly, Mount Berry, Georgia.

Since so many of you who responded to the campus map offer in the November-December issue indicated that you read the editor's column regularly, we decided it was high time such a column be instituted. The we in this case is not the editorial we, but refers to Don F. Stout, '51, director of University publications, and myself.

Because of my recent extended illness and hospitalization, some of the regular departmental features of the Alumnus do not appear in this issue. The Alumni Report, for example, will be continued in the next issue. A special feature with photographs on the New York alumni club's March 1 reception for high school students from the Greater New York area, also planned for this issue, will be used later.

Photo stories concerning a series of alumni club meetings held last month in Florida and Georgia also will appear in upcoming issues.

A special feature now in the planning stage is a special in-depth look at today's students. The report, written by Mrs. Jan Kissner Cady, '65, zeroes in on ten students. Through their words and actions, the Alumnus attempts to sketch in a portrait of the 1967-68 student body at Ohio University.

There are many things we'd like to do to make your magazine more interesting, more readable, more informative and more entertaining, but we need to hear from you once in a while to know if we're on the right track. Fair enough? Just address Don or me in care of University Publications, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio 45701.

THE COVER: Rain, rain, rain! Who among the alumni of Ohio University doesn't remember the gentle spring showers, with the brick walks glistening in the wet; the crashing thunderstorms that cut out the electricity for an hour or so, followed by an incredible rainbow hanging over the Hocking River; and the just plain monotonous downpours that are, and always have been, such a part of the springtime scene in Athens? And just as much a part of the same scene are the students studying under flowering dogwoods on the College Green or clustered around the War Memorial in the afternoon sun, singing folksongs and protesting whatever happens to be the current issue. Photograph by Harry Snavelly.

Alums Enlighten Career-Oriented Students

Ohio University moved toward closing The Generation Gap—at least between its alumni and students—this spring when more than a dozen former students arrived in Athens to meet and talk with today's students. The focal point: a Career Symposium, conducted on the Ohio campus April 8-20.

It was a chance for alumni, whose infrequent contact with the college generation is too often superficial, to find out what students are thinking. At the same time, students had an opportunity to meet and visit informally with people now serving in many capacities.

Although the symposium was organized primarily to acquaint students with various career opportunities, discussion often centered on timely issues and controversial subjects.

During a senior-level seminar on judicial procedures, alumni and students became involved in discussing recent Supreme Court decisions, juvenile crime, impartiality of the judicial system in the United States, racial conflicts, homosexuality and other urban problems. Participating in the discussion were William Sammons, '49, municipal court judge in Chillicothe; Mrs. Merrel Holmes (Olive Will, '38), juvenile court judge of Hamilton County (Cincinnati), and James Mancino, '62, attorney for the City of Cleveland.

Visits by the alumni and other representatives from business, science, law, government service and education were staggered throughout the two-week symposium. Many of the guests actually lived in dormitories and fraternity or sorority houses, which made their stays at Ohio even more significant, both for them and for the students. Itineraries were planned by the individual housing units, where informal discussion sessions were scheduled in the evenings.

Alumni and other guests had an opportunity also to meet with University faculty and administrators and to tour the campus facilities.

The Career Symposium, originally proposed by resident director of the West Green residence hall complex, Jim Moy, was co-sponsored and supported by the Alumni Association and the Ohio University Fund, Inc.

Other alumni participating in the program were Carol Orr, '67, assistant director of the West Green at the University; John Hostutler, '50, industrial management counselor; Joe Marsalka, '50, president of Measurement Instruments, Inc.; Mrs. Robert Grasselli (Jeannette Gecsy, '50), research chemist with Standard Oil of Ohio (Sohio); Mrs. Fred Luchs (Evelyn Coulter, '27), writer-critic; Douglas E. Fairbanks, '57, division traffic manager for the Bell Telephone Company; Edward Belsho, '50, vice president, Royal Typewriter; Eugene Rinta, '38, executive director, States Chamber of Commerce; Donald Pease, '53, editor, Oberlin Tribune; Joy Washburn, '66, public relations representative, Columbia Gas of Ohio; Mrs. Paul Kendall (Carol Seeger, '39), author of children's books; Ralph Hughes, '50, vice president, Ohio National Bank; Dr. John Kircher, '50, research chemist; Richard Eddy, '40, executive vice president, Union Carbide; George Voynovich, '58, state representative, 53rd Legislative District, partner and attorney; Richard O. Linke, '41, manager for entertainment personalities.

ADVICE FROM WASHINGTON

Fellows Tune In on Capitol Hill

A rugged bus trip through the mountains was not entirely without event for 19 Ohio University Fellows headed for a career symposium in the nation's capital late in March. Just outside Washington the bus broke down. The untimely incident was overshadowed, however, by two days of provocative dialogue with youthful aspirants to government work.

Emphasis during the seminars was on career and internship opportunities in government agencies open to the Ohio Fellows after graduation.

Friday's schedule included talks with Michigan Congressman Don Reigle's legislative assistants, Illinois Congressman Thomas Railsback, Assistant Secretary of State for Congressional Relations William Macomber and William Welch, special assistant to Vice President Humphrey. The talks, representing the views of different branches, provided the Fellows with a basis of contending and varied appraisals of major issues, including Vietnam.

At a noon luncheon, the executive director of the White House Fellows, Tom Carr, introduced young men and women already involved in the program. In addition to discussing their previous work and study experiences, the White House Fellows answered questions about their work in government agencies, which ranged from the Post Office Department to the Defense Department.

Activities of the first day ended at an afternoon meeting with four management interns from the Department of Labor. Again, the group encountered youthful representatives who outlined special employment programs initiated during the year, shared their experiences and initial reactions to government employment, and encouraged the Fellows to seek participation in the intern programs offered in the capital.

Interest focused on "How Young People Make Government Work" when the students participated in a panel discussion Saturday morning. Panel members from the Post Office Department, and NASA, the Defense Department, HEW and the Labor Department acquainted the Fellows with their backgrounds and individual job responsibilities. Questions dealt with advancement, level and responsibility of positions for the entrants. HEW representative Hal Lyon, a former assistant to President Alden, related his attempts at a special project to improve attitudes and working relations among government employees.

Saturday afternoon the Fellows toured the White House and attended discussions with Assistant Presidential Press Secretary Tom Johnson and two of his aides.

A wine and cheese party later that evening offered the group an opportunity to talk informally with young men and women from government agencies who presented a candid picture of Washington life.

"Each Fellow returned to Athens with valuable insights," one remarked, "some with the desire to pursue government internships and agency work after graduation."

OHIO UNIVERSITY NEWS

STUDENT FEES The Ohio Board of Regents on April 19 rejected, at least until the fall, a proposal submitted by Ohio University's Board of Trustees to allow the University to increase its student comprehensive registration fees by $30.

University President Vernon R. Alden first announced the proposed fee increase at a meeting of the faculty March 28. He called the proposed increase necessary to offset loss in state funds if projected enrollment estimates fell short due to the recent changes in the draft law. The increase would also be used to expand the library budget and to finance the critical needs of rapidly growing departments in the University.

Ohio ranks 45th among the states in the per-capita spending of tax funds to operate state-assisted colleges and universities, according to a recent issue of The Chronicle of Higher Education. Ohio's $14.39 per-capita spending ranks just below Mississippi, just ahead of South Carolina, and considerably behind the State of Washington, the nation's leader, which spends $44.37 per capita for public higher education.

NEGRO WEEK Floyd McKissick, Dick Gregory, John Wooten, and Smokey Robinson and the Miracles were among the participants in the University's first Negro History Week, held Feb. 11-17.

The events of the week were designed to inform both black and white students and staff of the history, heritage, and current crisis of the Negro in America.

McKissick, national chairman of the Congress of Racial Equality, and Gregory, comedian and civil rights leader, spoke of the current position of the Negro in the U. S. and predicted many long hot summers unless major changes are made.

Wooten, a player with the Cleveland Browns football team, spoke about the Negro's role in professional sports.

Smokey Robinson and the Miracles, the singing group that first popularized the "Detroit Sound," concluded the events of the week with a two-hour concert.

JOURNALISM WEEK Nine speakers from the professional ranks of journalism spoke during Ohio University's first Journalism Week, April 8-11.

Participating in the week were Turner Catledge, executive editor of the New York Times; Roger Tartarian, vice president and editor of United Press International; Richard Darrow, president of Hill and Knowlton, international public relations counseling firm; Richard Churman, chief of correspondents for Time-Life News Service; Kate Lloyd, feature editor, Logue magazine; Edward Barrett, dean of the Pulitzer Graduate School of Journalism, Columbia University; John Palshaw, vice president of the Institute of Communications; Gordon Manning, vice president and director of CBS News; and James Fain, Dayton Daily News editor.

The Journalism Week activities were organized by John Wilhelm, director of the University's School of Journalism.

MUSIC SCHOOL DIRECTOR Dr. Clyde Thompson, currently assistant dean of the University of Michigan School of Music, has been named director of Ohio University's School of Music. He will begin his duties in Athens about July 1.

A member of the Michigan music faculty since 1950, Dr. Thompson also served on the faculty of the

Dr. Clyde Thompson

National Music Camp at Interlochen, Mich., from 1962 to 1966.

The new director's professional playing experience includes appearances with the Stanley Quartet, the Ballet Theatre Orchestra in New York, the Miami Symphony, and the Pittsburgh Symphony.

Thompson attended New York University, the Juilliard Institute, and holds BMus and PhD degrees from the University of Michigan and an MFA from Carnegie Institute of Technology.

FULBRIGHTS AWARDED Dr. Norman S. Cohn, associate professor of botany, and Dr. Edward Stone, distinguished professor of English, have been awarded Fulbright grants to study or teach in other countries.

Dr. Cohn's Fulbright grant will allow him to conduct research on cytology and radiation at the University of Leiden in The Netherlands during the coming academic year.

Dr. Stone has been awarded a Fulbright-Hays lectureship in American literature. He has been lecturing at the University of Buenos Aires and the University of La Plata, both in Argentina, since March. He will also present lectures at institutions in other South American countries through August.

Cohn joined the University faculty in 1959. He holds a PhD from Yale, an MS from the University of Kentucky, and a BA from the University of Pennsylvania.

Stone has been a University faculty member since 1956. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees from the University of Texas, and a PhD from Duke University.

CHARTER REVOKED The charter of Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity has been revoked by the University Committee for the Elimination of Discrimination in Student Organizations.

The revocation was a result of "A concerted effort on the part of the organization to ignore and perpetuate a discriminatory act by one of its members, which was contrary to the regulations of Ohio University, Inter-fraternity Government, and Lambda Chi Alpha National Fraternity."

The revocation was based upon a discriminatory act which occurred during spring quarter rush.

Lambda Chi Alpha is the second fraternity to have its charter revoked by the University in the past two years. The chapter of Alpha Phi Alpha was disbanded last year for failure to meet certain University standards in several areas. During the same period two new fraternities have been established on campus. Phi Gamma Delta and Sigma Phi Epsilon.

STUDENTS NOMINATE ROCKEFELLER It took an all-night session to do it, but the University students participating in the Mock Republican Convention held on campus April 25 and 26 finally Nineteen sixty-eight's political arena captured the imaginations of Ohio University students who—whether participating in the Mock Republican Convention or campaigning in Indiana for their favorite Democratic hopeful—pressed candidates and issues. Along with

selected New York Governor Nelson Rockefeller as the Republican candidate for president and Charles Percy, U. S. Senator from Illinois, as the vice-presidential choice.

A total of 18 candidates were nominated for the office of president by the 2500-plus delegates at the convention, but only three, — Ohio Governor James A. Rhodes, Oregon Senator Mark Hatfield, and Rockefeller — received votes on the third ballot, the one which selected Rockefeller.

Other candidates receiving 100 or more votes for president on the earlier ballots included California Governor Ronald Reagan, Massachusetts Senator Edward Brooke, Florida Governor Claude Kirk, Tennessee Senator Howard Baker, former Vice President Richard Nixon and New York Mayor John Lindsay.

Choosing a vice president was easier—Percy won on the first ballot at about 8 a.m. His only opposition came from Brooke, Kirk and Reagan.

ROBINSON MEMORIAL A studio in the new Music Building will be specially furnished as a memorial to Clarence Cramer Robinson, former head of Ohio University's Music Department (September 1921-June 1947). The studio furnishings — piano, desk, carpet, drapes, pictures, suitable plaque, etc. — will be provided from funds given to the Robinson Memorial Fund by former students and friends of Mr. Robinson. Contributions should be sent to the Robinson Memorial Fund, c/o The Ohio University Fund, Inc., Baker Center, Ohio University, Athens, Ohio 45701.

Mr. Robinson, with the assistance of Torch and the music fraternity, Phi Mu Alpha, established the idea of "Fraternity Sings" at Ohio University, and the idea was later adopted on many campuses. By the time of his death on March 7, 1968, in Carmel, Calif., Mr. Robinson was author of nearly 150 published original compositions.

BASIC CHEMISTRY:

Three Months or One Week?

Mastery of material, whether it takes a week or three months, will be the only criterion for passing a newly organized basic chemistry course at the University.

Beginning in the fall, students may enroll in the one-exam experimental course that requires no attendance and no graded assignments. Course grade will be whatever students earn on a comprehensive examination, one which may be taken repeatedly with only the last grade recorded.

The philosophy behind the new course places the responsibility for learning basic chemistry on the student. He will get help, as much as he needs, but it will be up to him to be his own taskmaster.

Any student in the flexible new course, described as "student-paced learning," may take the final examination at any time. The bright, well-prepared student may finish the course within the first month and thereafter have more time free for remaining courses. Other students may take the full term for the chemistry course and obtain as much help as they need.

Advantages of the course are considered to be as great for the instructor as for the students. Under the new plan there will be a steadily decreasing number of students in the course. An instructor will not have to be concerned about the better students becoming bored, and more and more time will be available for tutoring the slower students. There will also be fewer papers to grade.

The new course was proposed by Dr. Jesse H. Day, professor of chemistry and associate dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. Clifford C. Houk, assistant professor of chemistry. The two instructors won financial backing for the development of the course from the Esso Educational Foundation.

The basic design of the course hinges on a detailed outline of what a student must know, or be able to do, in order to pass the course. The course outline plus a varied set or programmed materials will be coupled with the traditional textbook and lecture approach. Even here the student will make the decision as to what lectures he attends by consulting a calendar listing of lecture topics.

For the student who needs concentrated work in a particular area, the course offers several opportunities. Tutorial help will be offered through a course office staffed 20 hours a week either by the instructor or chemistry graduate students.

In addition, a course library, complete with a study room, will offer several kinds of relevant self-study materials, programmed texts, and reference books and journals. Tapes of all lectures will be kept for students who wish to hear a particular lecture.

A final examination for the course will be offered the first week of the quarter and approximately every three weeks thereafter. If an individual student is discontent with the grade he receives on his first attempt at the examination, he can continue studying and take a later examination. No record will be retained of his earlier attempts. All examinations will be of approximately equal difficulty. The final examination will include one essay question to be written on any topic the student chooses. Essay topics may be chosen from the curriculum or independent study.

BOBCAT SPORTS

You can depend on three things around Athens in the spring—unpredictable weather and outstanding teams coached by Bob Wren in baseball and Kermit Blosser in golf.

Wren is the dean of Mid-American Conference baseball coaches and is recognized nationally for his past efforts. Blosser is aiming for his 15th MAC title in 18 years.

Everyone was taking Bob Wren's diamond crew for granted at the season's halfway point, with a spiffy 13-4 record, the Mid-American Conference lead and a seven-game winning streak. From all indications, Ohio and Western Michigan would once again battle to the last weekend for the conference title and a berth in the NCAA District Four playoffs.

But this year's baseball squad does not seem to have the overall strength of past teams. "Our pitching has not come around the way it should," said Wren, pointing out that he is without an established starter for the first time since 1959. At one point in the season, he used four different pitchers in each of eight games. Junior righthanders Bob Morgan of Findlay and John Morlan of Columbus won eight of nine decisions through the first half of the season while junior first baseman Mike Murphy from Dayton broke the school record collecting hits in 16 straight games.

Murphy and junior shortstop Rich McKinney from Troy, an All-Star in the MAC and the NCAA District Four last year, are expected to supply the main batting punch in Ohio's stretch drive.

The Bobcats, hitting a record .329 as a team, played some games that caused Wren plenty of anxious moments. Following a 21-16 loss to Northern Illinois, Ohio beat the Huskies in their second encounter 14-0, and recorded victories over Bowling Green (14-7, 19-12), Toledo (12-7, 9-7—both 11 innings), and Dayton (3-2).

Blosser's golf team hit the midway point with a sizzling 15-3 record and 11 straight wins after a successful southern trip over spring vacation that included a second place finish in the Red Fox Invitational.

Except for MAC co-medalist Terry Beard, Blosser's entire team has returned from last year—the team that won the conference title by two strokes. Jim Nordstrom of Ashland and Hal Ward of Franklin lead the Bobcats with 75.9 and 76.8 averages and Ludwig Schenck of Berea has compiled a 6-1 dual match record.

Blosser has a great amount of depth on the team and once the championship matches roll around he will have to choose the top six from as many as nine or ten players with almost equal ability.

Ohio's track and tennis teams are sharing in the limelight this spring.

Track coach Stan Huntsman, the mentor of numerous "national class" individuals in the past, has come up with a squad that could challenge Western Michigan and Miami for the conference title with depth in several field events. Don Fish in the javelin, Dennis Larabee in the hammer throw, Ron Hungarter in the discus, and long triple-jumper Jerry Boswell are Ohio's front line performers. Boswell won the highly competitive Central Collegiate long triple-jump title last year with a 24' 9½" leap.

Ohio is equally strong in the running events. The Bobcat 440-yard relay foursome of All-Americans Emmett Taylor, Roger Hosler, Dick Fulmer and Ben Smith that finished fourth in the NCAA finals last year established a new all-time Ohio collegiate record in the 880-yard relay this spring (1:25.3).

At the Drake University Relays, Ohio's top relay team achieved a victory with a 1:23.7 in the 880 yard relay that broke the record set in 1959 by Texas. In the mile relay the next afternoon they finished third with 3:08.1. Both of these times were new all-time Ohio collegiate marks. Taylor ran the anchor leg, coming in with a 19.8 220 split and a 45.1 440 split.

Taylor is also a strong individual threat in the sprints. He entered the 1968 Olympic year as the ninth-ranked quarter-miler in the world.

The Ohio thinclads showed their power in the first outdoor meet of the season, beating arch rival Miami in Oxford 82½-80½, for the first win over the Redskins in 32 years.

The success of tennis coach Carroll Widdoes was an even bigger surprise. You have to go back to 1960 to find Ohio's last winning season in tennis (6-3). But this year the Bobcat netters returned from their southern trip 3-5 and then proceeded to compile a five-meet winning streak to enter the home stretch with an 8-5-1 ledger.

"I think we're on the right track now, we're attracting better tennis players," says Widdoes. "Our tennis program has been a personal challenge to me. It keeps me going strong," he added.

CALIFORNIA

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA (LOS ANGELES)—On Saturday, May 18, Jack Ellis '57, executive director of Alumni Affairs, and Dr. James Whalen, executive vice president for administrative affairs, will speak before the southern California alumni chapter at a dinner in the Los Angeles Biltmore Hotel. Always a strong chapter, a large attendance is expected to hear about current developments at Ohio University and to find out how they, as an organization, might support the University. Even though there are approximately 1,000 alumni living in the area, distance precludes their becoming too involved in many of the activities that concern chapters in and around Ohio. Therefore, the program will be oriented specifically toward their needs and desires. Even though Ohio University seldom, if ever, sends athletic teams that far southwest, and the distance is too great to send speakers, musical and other performing groups, the alumni in southern California still have maintained very close ties. A great deal of the credit for this must go to their active board of directors and their president. If you would like to support this alumni chapter, contact Edward Koran '49 at 1424 Armando, Long Beach, California 90807.

CONNECTICUT

WESTCHESTER—On March 23, at the Halfway House in Darien, Connecticut, the Westchester chapter held their first dinner meeting. Besides socializing, the group discussed types of committees and functions that should be considered. Bud Glasberg headed the discussion and read telegrams from Bill Steinhardt '50, Massachusetts Commonwealth Chapter president, and Jack Ellis '57, executive director of the Alumni Association, congratulating the Connecticut chapter on its initial enthusiasm and its organizational progress. Alumni from New Milford, Connecticut, and Riverhead, New York, attended the dinner. An early summer New England clambake is being planned and is scheduled to be held at Pete Yanity's '49 place. More information on this will be forthcoming. Connecticut alumni interested in taking an active role in this newly formed chapter should contact Bud Glasberg at Stonehenge Road, Weston, Connecticut 06880.

GEORGIA

ATLANTA—On March 19, in the Hermitage Room of the Marriott Hotel, Jack Morrison, dean of the College of Fine Arts, spoke of the evolutionary changes that have taken place in the various media forms, and how they have related to and have been tied in with the radical changes of a few years ago. He spoke to about 50 alumni in the Atlanta, Georgia, area, and Jack Ellis presented the chapter president, Milt Berry '50, with their charter. Although a relatively new group, Atlanta is becoming one of the most active out-of-state chapters.

INDIANA

INDIANAPOLIS—Indianapolis will receive its alumni charter from William Loftus at the Ft. Benjamin Harrison Officer's Club on Friday, May 3. Receiving the charter for the group will be its president, Richard McConnaughey '43. William Rohr, athletic director of the University, and Jon Powell, associate professor of radio and television, will talk on developments in their respective areas at Ohio, with color slides of the University as part of their program. This is the first dinner meeting of this recently re-organized chapter; but there is a good strong base of interested active alumni in the Indianapolis area. It is expected that the meeting will be attended by alumni from Bloomington, Columbus, Anderson, Muncie, Lafayette and other towns in the central Indiana area.

MASSACHUSETTS

BOSTON—At a reception in his honor at the Fenway Commonwealth Hotel in Boston, on February 12, President Vernon Alden presented the Massachusetts alumni chapter with its charter—the first in the University's more than 160-year history. President Alden also installed the chapter's officers: William Steinhardt, '50, West Newton, president; Ron Wormer, '65, Cambridge, first vice president; Michael Neben, '60, Beverly, second vice president; Marcia Hill, '62, Jamaica Plain, secretary; and James Tuverson, '59, Holliston, treasurer.

Chapter president Bill Steinhardt presented Dr. Alden with a check as the first of several contributions to a fund for needy students in memory of the late Urda Traenkle, '65, who was killed in a laboratory accident in January. Friends of Miss Traenkle who would like to contribute to the memorial fund should send checks to The Ohio University Fund, Inc., Ohio University, Athens, Ohio 45701.

A Get-Acquainted Social has been planned for the western part of Massachusetts, to be held in the Collegian Court Restaurant, Chippewa, at 8 p.m., Monday, May 13.

MICHIGAN

DETROIT—A meeting of alumni interested in forming a chapter in Michigan was held on Sunday, March 10, in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph DeCarminada '57 (Carol Blosser '59), following a suggestion from David Eisenmann '64 that the many Michigan alumni might be formed into at least one chapter. Alumni from Detroit, Birmingham and Midland were present, and it was decided that a questionnaire would be sent out soon to determine the total interest in the Detroit area, the Tri-City area (Midland, Bay City, Saginaw), Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, and Lansing. There are over 850 alumni living in Michigan, with the majority in the abovementioned cities. The possibility of two or more chapters is very likely. Send in the questionnaire when it arrives and/or contact either Joe DeCarminada at 6648 Timber Ridge Drive, Birmingham, Michigan, or Dave Eisenmann at 3106 Aven Street, Midland, Michigan 48640.

MINNESOTA

MINNEAPOLIS—An organizational dinner meeting, held on April 26, was a fine beginning of a new alumni chapter. Other meetings and alumni events will be held during this year, and all alumni in the area will receive notices about them. If you would like to help in the development of this chapter, contact Andrew Perine '56, or his wife Carol (Carol Muller '58), at 9033 Northwood Circle, New Hope, Minnesota 55427.

MISSOURI

ST. LOUIS—On April 21, the chapter hosted a reception for prospective students from the St. Louis area. The reception, one type of activity by which an alumni chapter can be of service to the University, was held in the home of chapter president Robert Heimsch, '43. There are a limited number of Ohio alumni in the St. Louis area, so if you are interested in lending a helping hand, and are within driving range, contact Bob Heimsch at 11740 Fawn Valley Drive, St. Louis, Missouri 63131.

William Rohr, athletic director for the University, and Jon Powell, associate professor of radio and television, will speak at the St. Louis chapter dinner meeting on May 4. Bill Rohr will comment on the construction and proposed uses of the Convocation Center, and the varied uses and facilities of the new radio and television building will be the subject of Jon Powell's talk.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK CITY—The Terrace Room of the Tavern on the Green in Central Park was the site of "Ohio on the Green", New York City's alumni chapter dinner dance. President Vernon Alden and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ellis, executive director of the Alumni Association, were guests at this gala affair. This dinner dance was to benefit the Greater New York Ohio University Alumni Association Jesse Zousmer Memorial Award. It was an excellently planned affair and very well received by those who attended. Dr. Emil S. Kustin '40, president of the chapter, has been instrumental in the resurgence of interest and activity in this organization.

ROCHESTER—On March 9 in a restaurant named Eddie's Chop House, the Rochester alumni chapter held their first dinner meeting. Close to 30 were present, some coming all the way from Syracuse, and the evening was a success since all there were interested in getting an active alumni chapter started in the Rochester area. Jack Hostutler, national alumni board member, spoke to the group, and Bill Loftus, assistant director of the Alumni Association, brought along movies, snap shots and publications depicting Ohio University as it is today. Class years from 1936 to 1967 were represented, and credit for organizing it all goes to Don Bencin '62 and his wife Arlene (Arlene Rabb '61). If you were unable to attend or did not receive an announcement, contact Don at 5 Clintwood Drive, Rochester, New York 14620.

OHIO

AKRON—The Mark III Restaurant was the site of the spring dinner meeting of the Akron chapter. Dr. Robert Savage, vice president for research and industrial liaison, spoke about the fine strides made in our science and engineering departments, the new science core building, and the accelerator. Bill Loftus, assistant director of the Alumni Association, presented chapter president Ken Scherer '42 with their charter and spoke about current alumni activities and the influence alumni can exert if they are properly informed and truly concerned about the University. It was an excellent, informative and entertaining evening for over 60 area alumni.

CLEVELAND MOTHERS' CLUB—Dean and Mrs. Jack Morrison of the College of Fine Arts spoke before the Mothers' Club of Greater Cleveland at Higbee's Auditorium on Tuesday, April 16. The luncheon meeting featured the guests from the University and election of officers for the coming year. Mrs. Charles G. Hamilton is the current president of the organization.

COLUMBUS WOMEN'S CLUB—Mrs. Jeanne Cagney Morrison, wife of the dean of the College of Fine Arts, will speak before the Columbus area Ohio University Women's Club at the Lindenhof Restaurant on Saturday, May 4. Mrs. William Guarniere (Diane Hutchison '62) will preside over the luncheon.

THESE SMILING MOTHERS and their offspring are heading for the Ohio University-Miami basketball game, which was the climax of the mothers' stay in Athens the weekend of February 16-18. The mothers are chapter presidents of their local Mothers' Clubs. They attended a seminar here, where they had an opportunity to exchange ideas and to develop further their clubs' programs. Left to right are: John Hamilton, junior in business administration; Mrs. Eleanor Hamilton, president of Cleveland Mothers' Club; Karen Bilck, junior in education; Mrs. Marge Bilck, president of Dayton Mothers' Club; Mrs. Mary Spicer, president of Toledo Mothers' Club; Susan Spicer, senior in education; Mrs. Frances Rogan, president of Youngstown Mothers' Club; John Rogan, senior in business administration. The sons and daughters escorted their mothers to the game.

DAYTON MOTHERS' CLUB—The Dayton Mothers' Club will be holding their spring luncheon on Tuesday, May 21. Jerry Reese, director of admissions, and Jerry Griffith, dean of student life, will be the speakers. Two students are also scheduled to make the trip and pose the student's view of the University.

TOLEDO—The Toledo chapter held their spring dinner at the Inverness Country Club on Friday, April 26. Jim Snyder '41, head basketball coach, and Ralph "Sid" Beckett '23, professor of accounting, addressed the alumni. Mr. Beckett, often referred to as "Mr. Alumnus" reminisced a bit, referring to both the past and the present at Ohio University. Mr. Snyder spoke about the athletic program in general and the basketball prospects in particular. Jack Ellis presented the group with their charter and spoke of activities of alumni chapters throughout the country, and of the great value of alumni to their alma mater.

YOUNGSTOWN—Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ellis and Mr. and Mrs. William Loftus were guests of the Greater Youngstown Area Ohio University Alumni Association at a dance held on March 23 in the ballroom of the Ohio Hotel. Lamar G. Jacobs, chapter president, welcomed the more than 200 alumni and friends who braved the snow and rain. There were door prizes, a raffle of an Ohio University chair, and slides of the University. During the program, Mr. Jacobs announced these new chapter officers for 1968-

69: Kenneth Baker '50, president; Robert Carano '53, first vice president; Richard Gourley '58, second vice president; Miss Catherine Wary '32, secretary; and Jack Betts '52, treasurer.

WEST VIRGINIA

CHARLESTON—President and Mrs. Vernon Alden were the guests of honor at the first dinner meeting of the southern West Virginia alumni chapter, held at the Heart O'Town Motor Inn in downtown Charleston. President Alden presented their charter to chapter president Randy Murray '60.

This chapter, formed just a few months ago, has received excellent support, and alumni from throughout the state came to hear President Alden discuss the changes that have transpired at Ohio University. Being situated relatively close to the campus, alumni from Charleston and other southern West Virginia cities are in a good position to support the University in many ways — student receptions, hosting student groups, and working closely with Ohio in various other capacities. If you would like to take an active role in this chapter, get in touch with Randy Murray at 311 22nd Street, SE, Charleston, West Virginia.

WISCONSIN

MILWAUKEE—Response to a questionnaire sent to Milwaukee, Racine, and Kenosha alumni prompted a dinner meeting which was held at Glorioso's Italian Villa, in Milwaukee, April 27. William A. Bonfield Jr. '57 headed up this initial meeting. Films of Ohio's football team, as well as current slides of the University, were shown. Various publications and pamphlets were on hand, and the group discussed ways in which an alumni could be of real and continuing benefit to the University. If you failed to get involved, contact Bill Bonfield, 3133 N. Marietta Avenue, Milwaukee, Wisconsin 53211.

ON THE WALL . . .

by Jack G. Ellis, '57, Executive Director
Ohio University Alumni Association

In 1946 Del S. Harder, of the Ford Motor Company, was discussing plans for a new plant. At that time he said: "Let's have more mechanical handling between the transfer machines, more of that automatic business. Give us some more of that . . . that . . . automation." Thus was first coined the word automation. Since that time, each of us probably uses the word daily and are in contact with some form of automation continuously.

Ellis

It makes our lives more pleasant, increases our productivity as well as our leisure, and at times provides us with oversized headaches when "that crazy machine" doesn't work.

I think we all agree, however, our lives would be far more complicated if it were not for those "crazy machines" and for the many benefits they provide us.

In an effort to better serve you . . . the alumni . . . to keep you better informed on the happenings at Ohio University and to do this more quickly and more efficiently, we have taken the plunge. Starting last January, we began converting our present card records to computer tape and plan to have all our present information computerized by September. However, we hope we don't experience that old story of the boss telling his employee: "It should be a great satisfaction to you, Mr. Simkins, to know that it is costing us $250,000 to replace you with a computer."

At the present time, we maintain records of approximately 42,000 alumni of Ohio and during the next ten years, we expect that number to go to about 80,000. So it is important we begin now to cope with this anticipated increase. Present methods now are for the most part manual, and this slows our mailings and our response to your inquiries. Changes in address alone average about 200 per week. It has been impractical and costly to continue our present method, and as your numbers increase, we must systematize whereby maintenance, record keeping, reporting and mailing can be accomplished by a more rapid and less costly method.

We are very happy to have Mr. Paul Margeson '47 assisting us on this conversion. A system of this nature is no better than the information contained and the manner in which it is recorded. Paul not only is an expert in computers, but has the added interest and concern in being an alumnus of Ohio University. We feel indeed fortunate to have his expertise in designing our new alumni records system.

While we are in the process of doing this, we want to take this opportunity to make you, the alumnus, more of a personal individual to us rather than just a record or number. We want to know more about you when you were a student as well as where you are and what you are doing today. If we know more of your past activities at Ohio and of your current interests, we can better inform you of what we at Ohio are doing in the field of your special interest. If your major or interest is in accounting, education, speech, chemistry or fine arts, for example, we can specifically advise you of our progress, or in general, the field developments. We additionally plan to hold seminars of a selected nature and if your interest is in this area, you will be advised. With our present system, we cannot do this.

To obtain this information, a questionnaire will be mailed you in the very near future. Normally, people do not like questionnaires and do not take the time to complete them for returning. We sincerely hope you will. This is your permanent record in our office and the information submitted is held in confidence. We believe you will benefit personally by this new system, but your assistance is needed for us to serve you better. So when that questionnaire does arrive, grit your teeth for the few minutes it will take to complete and get it out of your system by putting it into ours. If you will complete this one form, we will be happy to handle the 42,000.

Photography by Don F. Stout, '51

Miss Featheringay is not an Ohio alumna (she's taken courses willy-nilly at Newark College of Engineering and University of Houston), but she happened to see the chair and rocker ad in the last Ohio Alumnus (she was having her teeth cleaned and noticed the magazine on the coffee table in her dentist's office). She was so captivated she sent her rocker order in that very day. (Funny thing: her dentist isn't an Ohio grad, either; he swiped the magazine from his lawyer's reception room.) In any case, Miss Featheringay is so pleased with her rocker she's planning to order the three matching chairs . . . as soon as she gets her dentist paid off. If you'd like to follow suit, you can order the rocker for $32.25; the lady's chair or the side chair for $24.50; or the armchair (with cherry arms) for $40. (If you live in Ohio, add four per cent sales tax.) Make your check payable to the Ohio University Alumni Association and send it to The Ohio Alumnus, 310 Baker Center, Athens, Ohio 45701. Your chair or rocker will be shipped to you express collect. (And by the way, the next time you visit your dentist, check out his reading matter. He may be a fellow alumnus . . . and then again, he may be only a sneak thief.)

How would you like to be <sup>on</sup>~~off~~ your rocker?

"I'm not really greedy..."

... I just know a good thing when I see it! Take a tip from me and come back to Athens for Alumni Weekend, June 7-9.

Friday night there will be a mixer, giving alumni a chance to meet old friends.

This is also an opportunity to meet new people, faculty and administrators, as well as other alumni.

Saturday offers bus tours of the growing campus to show changes which have occurred since the graduation of even the newest alumni. One of the most pleasant traditions of Alumni Weekend is the Saturday evening Concert Under The Elms.

Sunday's commencement exercises are the culmination of the weekend.

But to my way of thinking, the Supper On The Green is the real highlight of the weekend. Good company always seems better with good food (and doesn't everything taste better outside?). So, as I said, come on back to Athens, with the entire family, for Alumni Weekend (see inside, page 20, for details) and buy a stack of these great box suppers.
